Innovate the poem 'The House by the Lake' and write your own version of this. Discuss with your family different parts of the poem you could change. For example, you could change the house to a hotel, bungalow or cottage. You could change a lake to a river, sea or even a mountain.

Once you have written this poem, could you create a plan for writing your own poem about a home. This could be the home that you currently live in, or it could be your dream home that you would love to live in. Plan what adjectives you are going to use, whether your poem will rhyme and what your home will be like.

Can you imagine a house on a lake,
Where you would go if you needed a break?
It would sit all alone on an island so small.
You wouldn't tell anyone about it at all.

It would be a simple house, made of wood,
Where a rickety old church once stood.
Your only company would be the trees,
The only sound would be the breeze.

You could sit outside and admire the view,
Or hide inside with a book. (or two!)
Imagine how calm and peaceful you'd feel
If time to yourself, like this, you could steal!

Germination

Our topic is Seed Germination. The life of a plant begins from a tiny seed. What happens next? Watch the video!!

Draw a picture showing what a seed would need so that it can germinate.

If you have cress seeds, kidney beans, apple seeds, coriander seeds or any other whole seeds at home, ask an adult if they will help you germinate them!

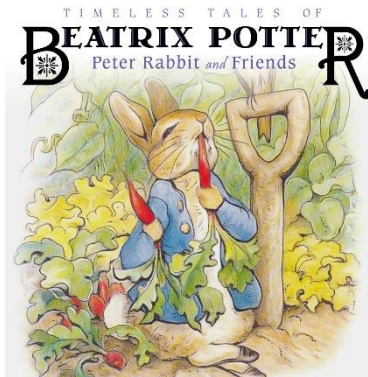

Keep a diary over the next 3 weeks and record what you can see.

On YouTube, research Peter Rabbit and the author who wrote this book, Beatrix Potter. Beatrix Potter drew the illustrations in her books and liked drawing many different flowers too. Could you research one of her pictures and see if you could recreate this at home? You could use pencils, paint or crayons. Here are some links to get your research started!
