Dear Mr. Oakley,

Removal from special measures

I am writing to congratulate you and your whole school team on your recent inspection outcome.

I know that the progress your school has made is the result of hard work and commitment on the part of many people, especially you and your staff. It is encouraging to see that your passion for the improvement of the school is shared by senior leaders and staff. I am particularly pleased to read that pupils who have special educational needs and/or disabilities are well supported during lessons, and that teachers use effective strategies to enhance their learning. It is also positive that the quality of teaching is improving, which is helping disadvantaged pupils make better progress. You will, however, want to ensure that all groups of pupils are sufficiently challenged so that they can make the progress they are capable of.

I hope that you are all celebrating the improvements you have made, which I know will not have been easy. I am sure that you agree the progress made has been good for all your pupils.

I wish you every success in your continuing drive for further improvement in the months and years ahead.

Yours sincerely

Amanda Spielman
